Standard Fine Art Division Judge and Jurors

Frank McCulloch, Judge

A recipient of the New Mexico Governor's Award in the Arts, UNM Distinguished Alumnus of the Year, Albuquerque Arts Alliance Bravos Award, MasterWorks Outstanding Achievement Award, and AABA "Local Treasure", McCulloch has works in collections including the National Hispanic Cultural Center, Museum of New Mexico (Santa Fe), Museum of Albuquerque, UNM Museum of Fine Arts, and the Capital Art Collection at the State Capital Building in Santa Fe. He received his BFA from UNM and Masters from NM Highlands, both in Biology, and an MFA from Instituto Allende, Mexico. He taught high school art for 30 years, also served as visiting art faculty at UNM and Southern Methodist University. His legacy has been noted in Southwest Art Magazine, New Mexico Magazine, Art News, American Artist, and PBS Colores, to name a few. His style of work initially dealt with abstraction in the NM landscape, then became more simplified, with hard-edged geometric formalism, and now back to landscape through a variety of media.

Jeanne Hyland, Juror

Ms. Hyland holds a BFA degree in figurative sculpture from University of New Hampshire and studied at École des Beaux Arts in France. Commercial design in Colorado preceded her return to Fine Art. She adopted watercolor after moving to California, where she taught at LA Academy of Figurative Art, Learning and Product Expos, Brand Library Studios. Now she teaches in Santa Fe at Artisan's ARTSpot and Expos, and other locales nationally and internationally. Her works have been widely exhibited and have received many distinguished awards. Jeanne is a past Board Member, National Watercolor Society; Member of American, National, Southwestern Watercolor Societies, and Portrait Society of America; Signature Member of Watercolor West, Women Artists of the West and New Mexico Watercolor Society.

Richard Alan Nichols, Juror

With a strong foundation in traditional impressionism, a tenure at the American Academy of Art in Chicago and tutelage under Irving Shapiro and Ted Smuskiewicz, Nichols has received numerous scholarships and awards. Calling Taos his source of inspiration, his works in oils, charcoal and watercolor reflect its landscapes with added interest in figurative and still life works. Nichols is found internationally in permanent collections including the American Academy of Art, Taos Art Museum, Hughes and Koop Private Collections, the Universities of Wisconsin, Nebraska, Minnesota and Missouri, and many others. His exhibitions and awards include Oil Painters of America, Society of Master Impressionists, Nomadas Del Arte, Salon International. He has also been the poster artist for Taos Invites Taos.

Dinah Worman, Juror

The work of award winning landscape painter Dinah Worman is instantly recognizable by its clarity and depth. Light is everywhere. It filters through the trees and streams and between the clouds.

After studying art at Colorado State University, University of Oklahoma and Metropolitan State University of Denver, a move to Sheridan, Wyoming allowed her to work with William E. Wright for three years. This experience encouraged her to continually renew her vision, pressing beyond method into a flow of creative instinct. While Dinah's oil and pastel paintings are based on reality, the interpretation of the scene has become more important than the scene itself.
